

E 1

Handwritten Latin text in a medieval script, likely a fragment of a philosophical or theological work. The text is arranged in two columns, with the left column being larger and more legible than the right. The script is dense and characteristic of the late Middle Ages. The text appears to be a commentary or a treatise on ethics, as suggested by the caption.

