

A manuscript page featuring a large, ornate initial 'D' in red with intricate black and white floral patterns. The text is written in a Gothic script on red four-line staves, with square neumes above the lines. The text reads: "Assio domini nostri iesu chris ti secundū matheū. In il lo tēpore. Dixit iesus dis apulis suis. Satis qua".