

113

The image shows a manuscript page with a grid of numbers and letters, likely an arithmetic table. The page is heavily stained and discolored, with the text and grid lines being very faint and difficult to read. The page is numbered 113 in the top right corner. The table consists of multiple columns and rows, with some numbers and letters visible, though they are mostly illegible due to fading and damage. The page is part of a book, as indicated by the binding on the left side.
