

ri deant me inimici mei et enim uniuersa qui te expectant non confundentur ps Uias tuas domine demonstra

The image shows a page from a medieval manuscript. It features six staves of musical notation, each with a red four-line staff and black square neumes. The text is written in a black Gothic script. The first line of text is 'ri deant me inimici mei'. The second line is 'et enim uniuersa qui te'. The third line is 'expectant non confun'. The fourth line is 'dentur' followed by a red initial 'ps' and a large red initial 'U' for 'Uias tuas'. The fifth line is 'domine demonstra'. The paper is aged and has some staining. There is a small brown paper patch in the top right corner. The background of the page has faint green and blue decorative patterns.