

Alle Te paschali. In pa.
sanctus Sanctus Sanctus dominus sabaoth plenus et
et
in
ne die
omnes
victori

The image shows a fragment of a medieval manuscript page, likely an antiphonarium. The page is made of aged, yellowish parchment with a prominent hole at the top center. It features musical notation on a four-line red staff. The text is written in a Gothic script, with some words in red ink (rubrics). The text includes the phrase "Alle Te paschali. In pa." followed by "sanctus Sanctus Sanctus dominus sabaoth plenus et". A large, ornate initial letter 'B' is visible in the middle of the page. The manuscript is placed on a light-colored surface, and the right side of the image shows the binding of a book.